

Distraction.gov
Public Service Announcement
60 seconds – All-Year
Texting and Driving

SFX: *sound of click-clacking*

Person 1: “Rachel! What are you doing?”

Person 2: “I’m texting Abby to let her know we’re heading to her house.”

Person 1: “But you’re driving! You should’ve text her before we left your house.”

Person 2: “You sound like my mom. It’s a quick text. It’ll be fine!”

Person 3: “Rachel, I really think you should listen to Liz.”

Person 1: “I can text for you”

Person 3: “That’s perfect, Liz! Just tell her what to say while driving, Rachel”

Person 2: “Seriously? I’m a good driver, Becky. And multi-tasker!”

Person 3: “Whatever, we’ve all seen you walk into a wall while texting.”

Person 2: "Oh my gosh... You're so mean!"

Person 1: "We just want to to be safe on the road."

Person 2: "Fine. Let me send this last text to Abby about the..."

Person 3: "Rachel! Look out! You're driving in the wrong lane!"

SFX: *tires screech, glass shatters, girls scream, loud crash*

Narrator: Did you know that over 400,000 people were involved in distracted-driving accidents in 2012?

Did you also know that 1 out of 5 teenage drivers think they can multi-task? This is not safe. You are putting your life and the lives of others in danger.

SFX: *emergency sirens blare in the background as PSA ends*

Narrator: One text or call could wreck it all.

Visit distraction.gov for more information.